University of Zurich^{UZH}

Open position at The Institute of Social and Preventive Medicine and the Division of Internal Medicine, University and University Hospital of Zurich

Head Physician of the Division of Occupational and Environmental Medicine

Duties include the management and further development of the Division in close cooperation with the Institute of Social and Preventive Medicine and the Division of Internal Medicine as a basis for high quality academic research, teaching, and clinical work. An important goal is to develop further evidence-based occupational medicine and risk assessment (REACH), in order to provide a basis for decision-making.

Applicants with the necessary scientific background will be evaluated for a professorship at the Faculty of Medicine.

The applicant must fulfill the following requirements: (i) specialist in occupational health (FMH) or equivalent qualification, (ii) several years of experience in leadership, (iii) ability to work in a team, (iv) habilitation or equivalent scientific qualification, (v) excellent knowledge of the clinical aspects of occupational and environmental toxicology, (vi) excellent knowledge of epidemiological methods, in particular the methodology of meta-analyses and systematic reviews, and (vii) an internationally recognized performance record in a field of occupational health research. Courses are taught in German.

The University of Zurich endeavours to increase the proportion of women in professorial positions and particularly welcomes applications from women.

If you require further information, please contact Professor Felix Gutzwiller, e-mail: felix.gutzwiller@ifspm.uzh.ch.

Applications must be submitted by 30 November 2012.
